THE STATEMENT

Mumbai has many offices.

Only one has a lake.

Powai Lake is not a backdrop. It is the address. From your desk, the water catches the light differently at every hour – dawn, mid-morning, the long evenings. No glass tower in BKC or Andheri can offer that. Or replicate it. Or even come close.

Good work needs good conditions. Not just the ergonomic chair and fast internet – the deeper kind. The kind that slows things down just enough and makes the day feel less frantic. That is what a lakeside address actually does.

“The finest workplaces in the world don’t inspire people despite their surroundings. They inspire because of them.”

Built by those who understand that a great workplace begins before you walk through the door.

K Raheja Corp and Chalet Hotels have been building in Powai for a long time. Long enough to know what lasts and what doesn't. This tower is the next chapter of a campus they started here and have never walked away from.

01

Spaces that age well

Every K Raheja Corp property is designed for the person who will sit in it ten years from now, not just the person who signs the lease today. The floor area ratio is not the brief. The daily experience is.

02

A track record you can read

From Powai's first commercial towers to Chalet Hotels' properties across the country, every project reflects the same thing: they finish what they start, and they build it well.

03

Operations that get out of your way

Single landlord accountability. A hospitality trained management team. When something needs attention, it gets attended to. You focus on your business.

Designed to disappear into its surroundings ...

... and stand out from everything else

The curved glass facade wasn't a stylistic choice. It was a response to the site – to the way light moves off the lake, and the way the building needed to sit in its setting without competing with it. At different hours and different angles, it looks like a completely different building.

That's the point. A tower that belongs here. Not transplanted from a business district. Just this building, on this site, by this lake.

Work. Stay. Entertain.

All without leaving.

Most offices ask you to leave for everything else. A dinner with clients. A room for the visiting team. A venue for three hundred people. Here, none of that requires leaving the campus. The Westin, the Convention Centre, the Marriott, Tower I – all of it is already here.

Westin Hotel

When your counterpart flies in, you host them properly – dinner, a room, breakfast the next morning – without a single car journey. The hotel is across the courtyard.

Convention Centre

All hands meetings, investor days, large conferences – the venue is steps from your office. No booking a hotel ballroom months in advance. No shuttling people across the city.

Marriott Residences

Your team across the globe lands and stays on campus. Your extended project team doesn't need a flat finding exercise. The accommodation is already here.

Cignus Tower I

Tower I has been here long enough to build its own gravity. The companies, the people, the everyday rhythm of the campus – Tower II inherits all of that from day one.

Earth conscious is not a certification.

It is a decision made at every floor.

The sustainable choices here weren't retrofitted or added at the end for a rating. The building sits beside a lake. That asks something of the design – and the design responded. Double-glazed glass. Rainwater systems. EV charging on every level. Green terraces that actually have green on them.

When your board asks about your organization's footprint, this address is the right answer. And when your team asks why you chose it, the lake outside their window handles the explanation.

At the center of everything that matters
